Stennis air show gains P&H approval

BY ED LEPOMA

Stennis International Airport will host a giant air show over the Labor Day weekend in the year 2000 that could potentially draw up to 300,000 participants and visitors.

The Hancock County Port Commission, which oversees Stennis and the Port Bienvenue Industrial Park, unanimously passed a resolution at its recess meeting Monday authorizing Commission President Dave McDonald to execute a lease agreement with Sky Parade Inc.

The Commission's attorney, Robert Genin, has been working for months with Sky Parade officials to spell out details under which the airport can be used over the three-day Labor Day weekend.

The promoters are promising to carry an umbrella liability policy of $10 million and provide security and traffic control over the course of the celebration. They also will reimburse Stennis for any expenses the airport incurs in connection with the event.

The Echo telephoned Richard Dillon, executive director of Sky Parade, Inc., at his office in Greenwood, Miss. Tuesday and Dillon said he was excited about the event, which will be marketed as "Sky Fest," coming to Hancock County.

The event has been held each year since 1993 in Jackson, but with increased activity at the Jackson Airport, promoters began looking around for another site. Crowds over the years have varied between 100,000 to 300,000, promoters said.

Dillon promised a "first class" air show that will draw caliber participants and bring a lot of media attention to Stennis and Hancock County.

Dillon said hot air balloons, precision flying teams and vintage aircraft will be featured at the Sky Fest celebration, along with musical entertainment and amusement rides.

In 1995, the Southeast Tourism Society awarded Metro

Winborn trial could go Friday

BY ED LEPOMA

A trial date for Julie Winborn of Bay St. Louis could be set as early as tomorrow.

Winborn, 33, is charged in the April 17 murder of her mother, Inez Kingston Bouis, 66, and Grady Winborn, 57, her husband. Both were found shot to death in Bouis' home in downtown Bay St. Louis at Second and Railroad streets.

On Monday, according to prosecuting attorney Larry Bourgeois, Circuit Court Judge Kosta Vlahos accepted a motion by Hancock County public defender Tom Berry to delay the starting date of the trial, which originally was expected to begin last Monday.

Bourgeois said Berry told Judge Vlahos that witnesses he planned to call were not available at the time.

Last month, Vlahos refused to suppress a confession by Winborn made to law enforcement officers who arrested her last April when they found her living in a trailer in Ellisville, outside Laurel, after an extensive search. Winborn also had her seven-year-old son from a previous marriage with her, but he was not harmed.

Berry argued unsuccessfully last May that Hancock County Chief Detective Tom Burleson read Winborn her Miranda rights too quickly for her to absorb the seriousness of the situation.

Burleson testified, after reading Winborn her rights, Winborn volunteered that she shot her mother and her husband, and voluntarily showed officers where the murder weapon was hidden.

Winborn faces an additional aggravated assault charge in Waveland where she is accused of shooting a woman at a Waveland apartment complex last April.

She is being held in Hancock County jail under a $1 million bond on the two murder charges, and is under another $10,000 bond on the aggravated assault charge.

Presenting colors

A Bay High Air Force JROTC Color Guard presents the colors at the Hancock County Welcome Center on Interstate 10 Monday in observance of Flag Day. Cindy Schoonmaker, VFW Post 3253 Auxiliary president, coordinated the special ceremonies attended by members of veterans organizations and auxiliary members. A veterans-organized Flag Day ceremony was also held in Bay St. Louis at the Bay Flag Memorial Monday. (Echo staff photo by Ellis C. Cuevas)

Ten applicants seek Bay-Waveland superintendent job

BY RANDY PONDER

A field of 10 applicants have applied for the position of Bay-Waveland School District Superintendent. All the applicants reside outside the district and include acting supervisor Kimberly M. Stasny.

In addition to Stasny, Virgel Fulcher, Stephen Handley, Cephus Jackson, Michael Peterson, Albert Snow, Gary Tierce, Bruce Weigle, Barbara White and Dwight Yates have applied.

A committee made up of principals and teachers from each school district school is currently reviewing the applicants and will make a recommendation by the end of June.

Superintendent Dr. Mike

Reed announced his retirement from the district several months back. The board advertised for the position on May 24 and set June 11 as the deadline for receiving applications.

Board member Richard Flowers said the delay was due in part to a special election to fill the seat of board member Frank Perniciaro who resigned.

Clerks choose Kellar

BY ED LEPOMA

Hancock County Chancery Court Clerk Tim Kellar is president-elect of the Mississippi Chancery Clerk's Association.

Kellar will take over the duties as president when the Association stages its annual meeting at the Beau Rivage Hotel and Casino in Biloxi July 6-8. The gavel will be turned over to Kellar by the outgoing president, Chancery Court Clerk Sally Fisher of Panola County, at ceremonies.

Kellar became active in the Association shortly after taking office and has served as secretary-treasurer, beginning in 1997, and the Association's vice president in 1998.

Kellar, 41, is a native of Hancock County and the Flat Top Community and the son of the late longtime supervisor Dolph Kellar.

He made his first run for public office in 1995, and took over the Chancery Court's position in January 1996.

A Democrat, Kellar is unopposed for his party's nomination in the Aug. 3 primaries, but will face Republican Kyle R. Ahlers of Kiln in the November general election.

Kellar is married to the former Jean Wells of Picayune, and they are the parents of two sons, Jordan and Evan.

Henderson bridge replacement set

BY ED LEPOMA

The U.S. Coast Guard is soliciting comments on plans to let a permit to replace the bridge over Bayou Portage in Pass Christian with a new $5.5 million draw span.

The proposed project, north of Pass Christian city limits on Henderson Avenue, is being partly financed with $4 million in Federal Highway Administration funds, and about $1.5 million state aid funds provided Harrison County for bridge replacement.

The new bridge will replace the existing low-level bascule span drawbridge, which has become structurally deficient and obsolete, with new mid-level, two-lane bascule span drawbridge on the same alignment.

The existing bridge will be removed prior to beginning of construction of the new drawbridge, and plans call for vehicular traffic to be detoured to Menge Avenue during demolition and construction.

The total project length is approximately 2,543 feet or 775 meters. The new bridge will be 1,271 feet long, 38.25 feet wide and have a clear roadway width of 35.43 meters.

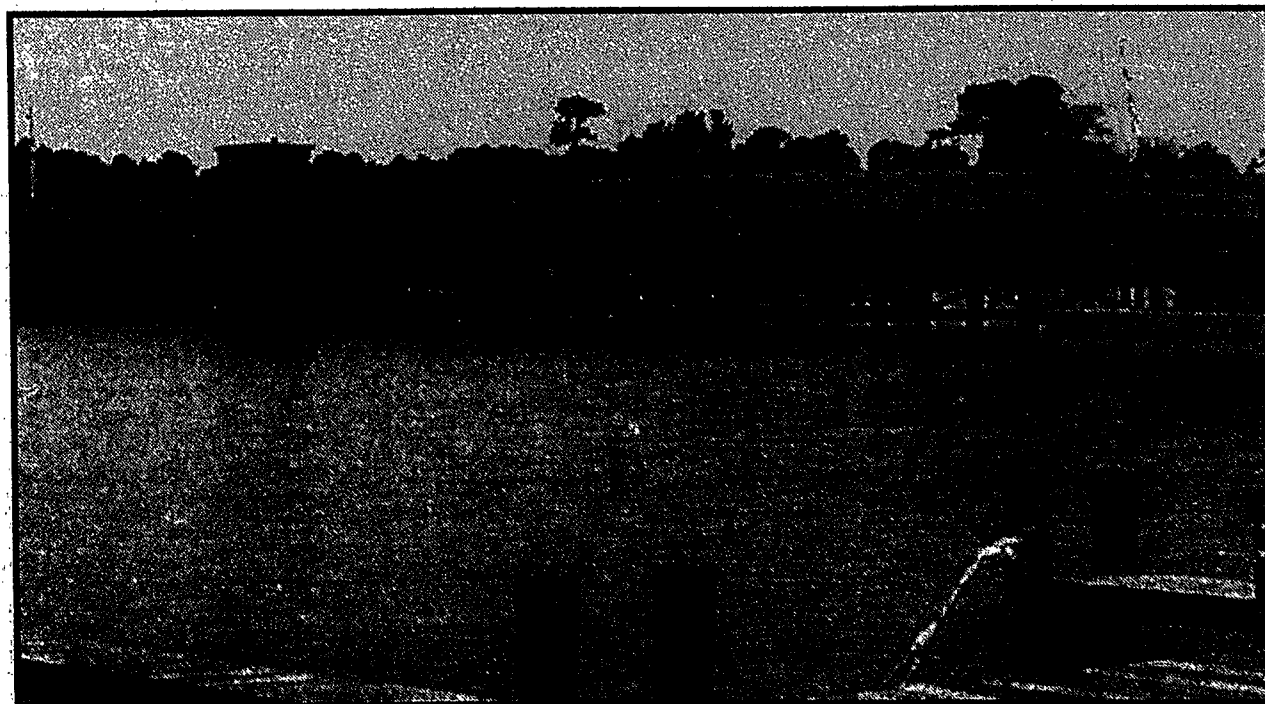

It will provide two 12-foot-

Up & over

Rev. Francis Theriault, pastor of St. Rose De Lima Catholic Church, and a 14-year-old passenger in his car were treated for minor injuries and released from Hancock Medical Center Monday morning after his car overturned. According to the Bay Police Department Assistant Chief David Stepro, Theriault was avoiding another car when his 1997 Chevy Lumina struck a guide wire from a utility pole at the corner of Beach Blvd. and Court St. in Bay St. Louis and flipped over. No charges have been filed in the accident. (Echo staff photo by Randy Ponder)

St. Ann-St. John Church News

We cannot shine if we have not taken time to fill our lamps.

For you were once darkness, but now you are light in the Lord. Live as children of light... nothing to do with the fruitless needs of darkness.

Every person in this world is a dream of God.

Then God said, "Let us make man in our image, in our likeness..." So God created man in his own image, in the image of God he created him; male and female he created them. God blessed them.

When you get to the end of your rope, tie a knot and hang on.

We do not lose heart... Our troubles are achieving for us an eternal glory that far outweighs them all. So we fix our eyes not on what is seen, but what is unseen. For what is seen is temporary, but what is unseen is eternal.

Student handbooks approved at district school board meeting

BY RANDY PONDER

The Bay-Waveland School Board wasted little time Monday night in its regular monthly meeting, finishing with all the items on the agenda in less than one hour before going into executive session.

The main item of discussion before the board was changes to student handbooks. Each principal explained particular changes, which in most cases were minor.

At Bay High School, a number of changes were made by principal Sandra Reed. "Attendance is fairly desperate," Reed said. "Whatever we can do to get our attendance up, we need to try. Some students come from homes that do not value education. We need to give the students some incentives."

Reed suggested allowing all students with an overall grade average of 85-94 to skip the semester exams if they had only one unexcused absence. Students with an average of 95-100 would be allowed two unexcused absences and still skip the semester exams.

Students will be allowed two absences without need for an excuse. Any additional absence will require a doctor's note, or a note from the school nurse.

Others changes in the high school handbook include, only natural hair color allowed, and transparent clothing or house slippers will not be allowed on campus.

The board approved the handbooks for all the schools, but instructed Reed to include a cover letter to high school parents highlighting the changes.

Reed is also chairing a committee charged with selecting a male sports director for Bay High, a new position. The balance of the committee consists of the head coaches from male sports at the school with the exception of one, who is a candidate for the job. Reed said there were five or six applicants. The winner should be announced by July 1.

In other business, board president Bryon Griffith stated that parents of all students would be surveyed during enrollment for their views on school uniforms. "This will ensure we reach 100% of the parents," Griffith said.

In other business, the board: —approved paying Elaine B. LaFontaine for four unused sick days for a total of $160;

—accepted resignations from several teachers and those of coaches Ken Matthew, Landry Kay and Jason Gladney;

—approved June Reaves as director of special services for the 1999-00 school year at the recommendation of acting superintendent Kim Stasny;

—hired teachers Rodney Carver, William Cowling, Theresa Ketchum, Dianne LaFontaine, Greg Owens, Pamela Owens and Amy Yarborough for the 1999-00 school year, also at the recommendation of Stasny. Greg Owens will also be the baseball coach at Bay High;

—approved the athletic worker salary schedule which pays the gate/ticket workers $25. per night; football game announcer, $20 per night; each member of the football chain crew $20 per varsity game and $10 per junior varsity game; basketball scorebook/clock operator $8 per high school game and $7 per 7-8th grade game;

—gave its okay to the girls basketball booster club to provide concessions for home basketball games with the proceeds to be used for shoes, summer camp, t-shirts, etc.;

—approved the coaching supplement scale which ranges from a possible high of $10,000 to a head football coach with 18 years experience to a possible low of $500 for a first year golf coach; —approved an exclusive agreement with SportsCare to provide athletic trainers at no cost to the district;

—approved American Bankers Life Assurance Company to provide student/athlete accident insurance as an option to parents;

—agreed to pay an annual premium of $62,455 to Steward, Sneed and Hewes Insurance Agency for property insurance. This represents an increase of about $3,500 over last year;

—approved a contract with Coastal Therapy Services, Inc. to provide occupational therapy and evaluations to special needs students;

—approved Dr. Richard Cloutier and Nancy Wheeler to provide psychological testing at a rate of $50. per test plus travel;

—approved a hearing impaired consortium agreement with Pass Christian Schools; —purchased seven alternative education slots in the Gulfport School District for a total of $38,598;

—accepted the low bid for various supplies;

—accepted the high bid for various surplus equipment; All board members, Richard Flowers, Irene Koskan, Cleveland Williams, Barbara Boston and Bryon Griffith, were present at the meeting.

The board will meet again June 28 at 6:30 p.m. in a special workshop to discuss the non-graded program. They will host a public budget hearing Friday, June 29 at 5:30 p.m.

The next regular board meeting is set for July 12 at 6:30 p.m. All meetings will be held at the district offices at 201 Carrol Avenue in Bay St. Louis.

Ballistics tests confirm Lege was gunman

BY ED LEPOMA

Waveland Police confirmed this week that ballistics tests show the same 38-caliber revolver that was used to kill two co-owners of the Kajun Kitchen restaurant on June 9 was then used by the gunman to kill himself.

Although Curtis Fouquet, the third co-owner of the restaurant had already linked Otis Lege, 63, to the murders, police waited for results from a New Orleans crime lab to confirm that Lege was the gunman.

The report showed that bullets recovered from the bodies of Kevin Odegaard and Kenneth Chrisman were determined to be fired from a 38-caliber revolver recovered later from 708 Timbalier Street, where Lege had killed himself shortly after the murders.

The Waveland police report also gave more insight into the double murder at the popular restaurant at U.S. Hwy. 90 and state Hwy. 603.

Ole Miss receives defense research contract

A monitoring system that can "hear" a nuclear explosion across vast distances also could lead to more accurate weather forecasts in the Pacific Coast region as well as improved flight safety, says a University of Mississippi researcher charged with developing the system.

Under a one-year, $1.6 million contract with the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA), the Ole Miss-based National Center for Physical Acoustics will develop and help operate a monitoring system of infrasound sensors at various sites to detect illegal nuclear testing around the globe.

The contract relates to enforcement of the Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty (CTBT), an international agreement banning the testing of all nuclear weapons.

NCPA will install infrasound monitoring stations in Alaska, Hawaii, California, Guam, Wake Island and the Antarctic. The sites will be part of a larger worldwide network operated by the International Data Center (IDC) in Vienna, Austria to enforce CTBT. In addition to infrasound stations operated by participating countries, IDC will employ a variety of other monitoring systems, including seismic detectors and radionuclide sensors, with all data fed back to a centralized IDC hub.

According to NCPA director Dr. Henry Bass, a better understanding of infrasound — signals below the range of human hearing — could lead to some major fringe benefits for science. "As we progress, it's becoming increasingly clear that this data is going to have a much wider impact beyond monitoring cheaters for the nuclear test ban treaty," he said.

Perhaps the biggest payoff will come in the form of a real-time map of the earth's upper atmosphere. A better working knowledge of atmospheric conditions could lead to improved weather forecasts in the Pacific Ocean region, Bass said.

Bad weather often catches the West Coast off-guard because meteorologists have no way of monitoring fronts moving in from the Pacific, he said. "With infrasound monitoring, we'll know what's happening over the Pacific before it reaches the West Coast."

Seeling awaiting Grand Jury action

BY ED LEPOMA

John Henry Seeling IV, 30, will stay in Hancock County Jail until a Grand Jury is convened in July and weighs charges that he beat to death 5-1/2-month-old Draven L. Archer.

On Monday, Hancock County Justice Court Judge Joe Dobson allowed County Prosecutor John Genin to play a taped confession, while relatives and friends of the young victim sat in the hushed courtroom. Others were so overcome they left the preliminary hearing while the tape was being played.

On the tape, Seeling told Hancock County Chief Deputy Nathan Hoda and Investigator Kenny Hurt that the baby was crying, and he kept shaking her in an attempt to make her stop crying.

Seeling said he threw the baby to the floor, then picked her up and slammed her against the wall. At the end of the tape, he said he loved the child, and was sorry for what he had done, and asked the family to forgive him.

Hancock County Sheriff's Department deputies and an American Medical Response team were summoned to 5041 Dogwood Road off Texas Flat Road on Memorial Day morning, tried to revive the child, then transported her to Hancock Medical Center, where she was pronounced dead.

Seeling was home babysitting the child, while her mother, Sherree L. Archer, was taking another daughter to see her father in BaySide Park. Formerly from Harahan, Seeling had just recently moved in with Archer.

If a grand jury indicts Seeling in July on a capital murder charge, and a jury later convicts him, he could receive the death penalty.

Flag Day

Flag Day ceremonies at the Bay Flag Memorial in front of Hancock Medical Center was celebrated by members of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Bay High Air Force JROTC, Boy Scouts, former Prisoners of War, Marine Corps League, Auxiliary members, Miss Poppies and others joined in honoring the American Flag. Gene Schloegel, Flag Memorial chairman coordinated the event. (Echo staff photo by Ellis C. Cuevas)

"CUEVAS" QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Judy Fletcher, food service administrator for the Bay-Waveland School District, wants to remind parents that the Summer Food Program for children in the area is in effect.

The meals are free for any child 18 years of age and under Monday through Friday.

Breakfast hours are 8 to 9 a.m., and lunch hours are 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at both Bay High School and Bay Middle School.

Due to construction at Waveland Elementary School, the lunch program for that school has been moved to Bay High School this summer.

There are not too many things free these days, and more folks need to take advantage of the free meals for the kids.

If you need further information, call the Food Service Office at 467-0405.

Last week I received a letter announcing the publication of Robert G. Scharff's Louisiana's Loss, Mississippi's Gain, a history of Hancock County, Mississippi.

On Monday I received a personalized copy from the author of the hard cover copy of the 700 pages book, and I am in the process of reviewing the publication.

Now the name Robert G. Scharff may not mean much to many folks of the area because he graduated from St. Stanislaus in 1946, then went on to LSU and resided in Louisiana for many years, New Jersey, Ohio and now resides in North Carolina.

Many should remember the names of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Scharff of Bay St. Louis. They were the owners of a food store at the corner of Toulme and Main streets starting back in the 1930's and then in the mid-50's Jitney Jungle on Main at Second, Second at deMontluzin and Highway 90 at Dunbar Avenue, before they retired and sold their franchise back to Jitney.

I had known the Scharff family since the eighth grade at St. Stanislaus, as son Larry was a class mate through high school.

Scharff, a chemist by trade, does not claim to be a historian or a writer, yet his book covers Hancock County from the Stone Age to the Space Age.

He reports that he got the idea of the book back in 1986 when visiting his ill father and was seeking some history of Hancock County. A librarian told him there were no such publications.

Needless to say, he has done a tremendous amount of research, and since I have only just begun reading the publication, one thing I can really say, Scharff has really dug deep for the facts.

I spoke to Charles Gray Tuesday morning, and he is also in the process of reading Scharff's book on Hancock.

Gray said he is impressed with the book and the definitive work that Scharff has done. He indicated that the author did his homework.

The Hancock County Historical Society should have a supply of the new books for sale soon, Gray said.

I am told that Bookends has a supply of Scharff's book, too.

I am looking forward to completing the book, and I feel it will take several weeks to get through it.

The publisher is Brunswick Publishing Corporation in Lawrenceville, Va. The cost is $39.95.

P.S. A foreword in Louisiana's Loss, Mississippi's Gain is none other than Stephen E. Ambrose.

BIRDS OF A FEATHER

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Writer defends Lampley, says residents, police need to help

Dear Editor:

This letter is a response to the negative letters written about council woman Mrs. Connie Lampley.

I do not live on Sycamore Street, but I lived there many years. I remember when it was called Good Children Street. Five barrooms were in this area. You could walk from one to the other.

No smell of marijuana smoke, no dirty language, and windows and doors could stay open all night.

The letters stated that the home owners need to take direct responsibility for actions committed on their property.

The selling of drugs are not on private property. It is in the street. Try passing in a car when a drug sale is taking place. You sit there until they are ready to move.

Sometimes the police will come sit on a corner for a few minutes. Down the street it's business as usual. I have property on Sycamore Street. I was forced by the druggies to tear down a house to keep them out.

I agree with Mrs. Lampley that the police do not do enough to stop this mess. It's a disgrace to see the teenage girls and boys walking the streets day and night selling drugs.

The parents can't stop them, because we all know why. I have many times called the police to do something about this. I must say they will come and tell some people to move on. Before the police get around the corner they are back.

The home owners who do not have these dealers hanging in their yards are afraid of retaliation. They say if the law can't do anything, what can they do. To the police I have this to say, "You can't do a good job sitting in a car on the corner." Gun shots are heard all the time, now and then someone gets hurt. So what.

The people who live in the 3rd Ward voted for council woman Lampley thinking she would put some input into this bad situation. Now you voters need to give her your support. She cannot do it alone.

Lots of people talk about what should be done, but nobody is willing to be committed to do anything. Things are not getting any better. So ask somebody what you can do to help.

Alvina Nichols
Bay St. Louis

P.S. Please correct me if I am wrong. Council woman Lampley is not a council man.

Soil and Water Society needs some local help

Dear Editor and Gulf Coast Businesses:

The Mississippi Chapter of the Soil and Water Conservation Society will be host to the National Soil and Water Conservation Society Conference Aug. 8-11. This is not only a national conference, it is also an international conference, because there will be visitors from several other countries with this group. This is the first time the Society has chosen to meet on the Gulf Coast, and we aim to encourage them to return again.

We would greatly appreciate any donations, promotional items (cups, huggies, t-shirts, pens, stickers, etc.) to insert in our guests' bags. We are planning to distribute beautiful canvas bags to the registered guests of this meeting.

Many of these guests will be visiting the Gulf Coast for the first time, and we want to give them a true southern welcome.

Chevron Corporation, along with several other major companies along the Gulf Coast have contributed to this event. We would like to have something from all businesses, to let our visitors know what we have to offer and the support we receive from our local companies.

The Hancock County Soil & Water Conservation District will be giving a tour of NASA at John C. Stennis Space Center, the Keesler Air Force Hurricane Hunters, and then serve lunch at the Keesler Marina with a local band for entertainment.

Our tour will consist of approximately 100 guests of various ages. Our goal is to provide special packets for this group containing information on the amenities of our beautiful Gulf Coast and show just how true southern hospitality is done.

Expectations for visitors to our area for this meeting are between 1,000 to 1,200. We plan to make this a visit they will truly enjoy and hopefully return to our area again in the future.

Thank you in advance for your assistance. You can contact me at Hancock County Soil & Water Conservation District, 16195 Hwy. 603/43, P.O. Box 546 Kiln, MS 39556-0546 or (228) 255-8382 email hcsweb@bellsouth.net.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

"Fool me once, shame on you; fool me twice, shame on me"

JACKSON—An old Chinese proverb says: "Fool me once, shame on you; Fool me twice, shame on me."

I could only think about that last week as the "Fordice Follies" unfolded in living color on TV. Once again, the people of Mississippi have been made fools of, this time by an incredibly Kirk Fordice. Think back for a moment to the 1995 gubernatorial campaign when Dick Molpus only peripherally mentioned Fordice's 1993 admission of "irreconcilable differences" with his wife of 40 years, Pat.

The 1993 admission came at a time we now know, Fordice had first rekindled a romance with his Memphis school days girlfriend Ann G. Creson. Molpus got slammed for even faintly hinting at the Fordices' shaky marriage in the 1995 debate, and being the gentleman he is, Molpus said he wouldn't bring it up again in the campaign. And he lost.

How touching it was at the scene of that debate on the Mississippi College campus when, after the two gubernatorial candidates came off the stage, Fordice made a big gesture to give Pat a smooch on the cheek.

As long suspected, the Memphis "mystery woman" who had lunch with Fordice in Memphis on November 5, 1996, only several hours before the car he was driving by himself plummeted off I-55 near Grenada, was Creson. He had been seen in a suburban restaurant with a woman having lunch, sipping wine, and holding hands.

Two months later, after he made a rather remarkable recovery from nearly fatal injuries, Fordice appeared in a press conference and declared he couldn't remember where he had been earlier on that day of his wreck. To questions regarding his private life, he angrily retorted it was "nobody's business."

The state's press and apparently most Mississippians let him get away with it scot-free. Until now.

What was laughingly billed by his staff as an industry-hunting trip to Europe was proven to be a cozy little rendezvous "abroad" with his Memphis girlfriend, caught by camera as they happily stepped from the plane last Sunday in Memphis.

Thanks to Jackson's WLBT-TV the whole Fordice comedy (or tragedy) was neatly packaged in the finest tradition of investigative news reporting, despite Fordice threatening bodily harm to reporter Bert Case.

This columnist, I want to point out, was the only reporter who had found out, and put into print Creson's name back during Fordice's 1993 "irreconcilable differences" marital episode.

I had written that she, then married to Memphis businessman Roy Creson, was Fordice's old high school sweetheart with whom he had renewed relations at a recent school reunion. I had spoken with her husband, a substantial business owner, on two occasions and it was apparent he knew what was going on between his wife and Fordice, because he had drawn up divorce papers. Several weeks later, he said they had patched things up.

Roy Creson died last November of cancer.

I Am Your Flag

I was born on June 14, 1777.
I am more than just a cloth shaped into a design.
I am the refuge of the world's oppressed people.
I am the silent sentinel of freedom.
I am the emblem of the greatest sovereign nation on earth.
I am the inspiration for which American patriots gave their lives and fortunes.
I have led your sons into battle from Valley Forge to Saudi Arabia.
I walk with the beat of the muffled drum with each of your honored dead, to their final resting place beneath the silent white crosses, now row upon row.
I have flown through peace and war, strife and prosperity, and amidst it all, I have been respected.
My red stripes—symbolize the blood spilled in defense of this glorious nation.
My white stripes—signify the burning tears shed by Americans who lost their sons and daughters.
My blue field—is indicative of God's heaven under which I fly.
My stars—clustered together, unify fifty states as one, for God and Country.
"Old Glory" is my nickname, and proudly I wave on high.
Honor me, respect me, defend me with your lives and your fortunes.
Never let my enemies tear me down from my lofty position, lest I never return.
Keep alight the fires of patriotism, strive earnestly for the spirit of democracy.

Durham promoted to second highest rank

Dr. Don Durham, Technical/Deputy Director of the Naval Meteorology and Oceanography Command at Stennis Space Center and a Picayune resident, is one of nine civilian Navy employees to receive a Senior Executive Service promotion this month.

The federal government's Senior Executive Program consists of the top executives in the federal government, designed to provide leadership rather than technical expertise the same way a civilian business executive provides leadership rather than engineering or manufacturing expertise.

In military terms they are the equivalent of an admiral or a general in private sector terms, they are the equivalent of the Fortune 500 executive.

Durham's promotion was from ES-4 to ES-5. The Senior Executive Service Program has six grades. The ES-5 and ES-6 executives in the Navy have to be appointed by the Secretary of the Navy.

The Navy has a total of 315 civilian senior executives; 64 are at ES-5 and ES-6 levels. Stennis Space Center has a total of nine with three at the ES-5 and ES-6 level.

Durham joined the command in 1986 in its earlier incarnation, the Naval Oceanography Command. In 1989 he was named Technical/Deputy Director, the command's top civilian post.

As Technical/Deputy Director, he is the senior civilian manager and top scientific advisor responsible for planning, coordination, management, direction and administration of broad multi-disciplinary scientific, engineering and technical programs of the command.

He is a native of McKinney, Ky., and the son of Nina Durham and the late Russell Durham. He is a graduate of Danville High School, Centre College in Danville, Ky., and Texas A&M University.

Durham came to Mississippi in 1972 to work for the Army Corps of Engineers as a research oceanographer at the Waterways Experiment Station in Vicksburg.

He moved to Stennis in 1978 as an oceanographer with the Naval Oceanographic and Atmospheric Research Laboratory.

Durham also has been a community and state leader, particularly in economic development and science and technology education. He was named the 1998 Citizen of the Year in Picayune and received the 1998 Outstanding Contributions to Science Award from the Mississippi Academy of Sciences.

He serves as vice chair of the Mississippi Science and Technology Commission; member of Mississippi State University's External Research Advisory Council and Mississippi Economic Development-Special Task Force; and as a board member of Mississippi State University, Mississippi Enterprise for Technology, Inc., Institute of Technology Development, Inc. and Mississippi Technology Inc.

His federal awards include a Presidential Rank Meritorious Executive Award, Secretary of Defense Meritorious Civilian Service Award, Secretary of Navy Distinguished Civilian Service Award, and Department of the Navy Meritorious Civilian Service Award.

He received the Centre College Distinguished Alumnus Award in 1997 and was named Outstanding Alumnus that year.

The Naval Meteorology and Oceanography Command is comprised of about 3,000 personnel at some 60 activities worldwide. Its mission is to collect, interpret, and apply global meteorological and oceanographic data and information for safety at sea, strategic and tactical warfare and weapons system design, development and deployment.

Families can learn about Germany by hosting student

German students with good English skills and motivation are arriving this August to experience the "American way of life." Families in Bay St. Louis willing to open their hearts and homes to a student are invited to participate.

Call today to be part of this exciting opportunity to host a German student and learn about Germany, its culture and language without leaving your home.

Academic Year in America (AYA), sponsored by the not-for-profit America Institute For Foreign Study Foundation, has been bringing international students and American families together for the past 17 years.

Students range in age from 15 to 18 and arrive from many other countries, such as Brazil, Poland, Japan and Hungary. They attend the local high school for a semester or academic year and have their own medical insurance and spending money.

Both families and students benefit from the exchange experience. The host family can learn about another culture, make a special friend and earn a scholarship worth up to $1,000 toward an AIFS College or ACIS travel-study program or AIFS Foundation's American Youth Abroad program for high school students.

"I wish every family would host a student, then they would realize how rewarding the experience is and how much love they receive," Laura Weir, an AYA host mother comments. "You wouldn't trade the experiences and memories of hosting these kids for anything in the world. They come into your life as strangers and leave as a member of your family."

If you would like to volunteer to open your heart and home to one of the international students or know of someone who would, call Andrea at 1-800-322-4678 ext. 6078.

USM names chair of new department

A longtime economic development practitioner and consultant has been named to head a new University of Southern Mississippi academic department aimed at bridging the gap between theory and practice.

Dr. David Kolzow, currently a principal at Lockwood Greene Consulting in Spartanburg, S.C., will become the first chairman of USM's new Department of Economic Development, effective July 1.

The state College Board approved USM's request to create the new department last summer and also authorized the university to establish a new doctoral program in international development.

Wal-Mart Waveland hosts Red Cross blood drive

Wal-Mart in Waveland will be doing its part to ensure the community blood is at a safe and adequate level by hosting a Red Cross Blood Drive June 25, 2-6 p.m. at 454 Hwy. 90. One unit of blood can help save as many as three lives.

All blood types are needed, especially type O donors. Type O donors are considered universal donors because O negative blood can be transfused to any hospital patient during an emergency when there is no time to crossmatch the blood—especially for newborn babies.

Type O positive blood can be transfused to anyone with positive blood type. You cannot contract HIV/AIDS or any other disease when donating.

All eligible donors are encouraged to come out and support their community blood drive. Donors must be at least 17 years old, weigh at least 110 pounds and have not donated in the past 56 days.

For information on donating blood, hosting a blood drive or volunteering for the American Red Cross, call 1-888-432-5663.

Katy Marie Muir Muir graduates from MSMS

Katy Marie Muir, daughter of Kathleen Fitzgerald Muir of Waveland and the late Thane R. Muir, graduated from Mississippi School for Math and Science in Columbus May 29.

MSMS is a high school for academically gifted juniors and seniors.

Muir is the granddaughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Fitzgerald and the late Dana and Maya Muir.

She will attend Mississippi State University in Starkville with a major in business information systems and a minor in computer science. She received the Mississippi Eminent Scholars Grant for $2,500 for maintaining a GPA of 3.5 and an ACT score of 29. She also received a $1,000 Academic Scholarship from Mississippi State based on her ACT score.

While at MSMS, Muir was a member of the Thespians Club, president of the Grecian Urn Poetry Society, Internet editor of the Environmental Awareness League, vice president of the UNIX Awareness Group and a member of the Science club.

Muir is a graduate of Lady Academy in Bay St. Louis.

She will begin classes this summer and also will work as an office assistant and web designer in the Computer Science Department in the College of Engineering at Mississippi State.

USM plans guitar institute

Individuals ages 12-21 who play the guitar -- or who would like to learn to play -- may attend the University of Southern Mississippi Guitar Institute July 18-23.

Students will have an opportunity to study pop, rock-n-roll, country, blues and jazz styles; arranging; chord chart and tablature reading; and other right-hand techniques.

Tuition is $185 for day students and $245 for resident students. Both costs cover all classes, lunch, music, limited accident insurance, recreational activities and a T-shirt. The fee for resident students also includes other meals and housing.

Camp Director John DeChiaro has presented concerts throughout the United States, Mexico and Europe -- including a private performance for Pope John Paul II at the Vatican in Rome. DeChiaro is a member of the USM music faculty.

For more information or to register, call USM's Department of Continuing Education at (601) 266-4186.

Seminar on sales forecasts and projections to be held

Forecasts and projections are an integral part of an entrepreneur's tool kit, or at least they should be. But preparing them seems to be shrouded in dark secrets for some people.

Gain some perspective as to what sales forecasts and projections are all about and how to use them effectively to increase your profits.

A seminar on forecasting and projecting will be held Wednesday, June 30 at the Gulf Coast Business Technology Center at 1636 Popp's Ferry Road in Biloxi, 8:30-11:30 a.m. Darren Kendrick, CPA will review the following information:

— Overview of perspective financial information including guidelines for preparing financial statements

— Key factors and assumptions

— How to project sales and expenses

— What CPA involvement means

The per-person fee is $15 if pre-registered or $20 at the door. Registration can be completed by sending payment to GCBTC, 1636 Popp's Ferry Road, Biloxi, MS 39532. Pre-registration ends June 25.

For directions or more information, call 392-9742.

Agency receives funds

The Mississippi Housing Initiative (MHI) has received financial support from the Fannie Mae Foundation, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), and the U.S. Department of Agriculture Rural Development (USDA).

As a result of the MHI efforts, Gulf Coast Community Action Agency (GCCAA) will receive $50,000 to provide 1,250 hours of homebuyer pre-purchase education services to approximately 125 clients.

In addition to the pre-purchase homebuyer service, GCCAA will be expected to offer potential homeowners a total of 2,556 hours of additional housing counseling services to approximately 426 clients.

The MHI is a cooperative effort of Mississippi mortgage lenders, real estate professionals, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, Mississippi Home Corporation (MHC), Fannie Mae, and nonprofit housing organizations.

The purpose of MHI is to establish a standard curriculum for housing education and to train counselors so that potential homebuyers will receive the same information wherever they attend sessions in Mississippi.

The new Home Buyer Education program, MHI's mechanism for establishing the highest quality of homeownership education and counseling services in accordance with the latest national standards, is coordinated from the offices of MHC, which is a HUD approved Homeowner Education and Counseling provider.

The Home Buyer Education program will offer potential homebuyers help through classes and one-on-one counseling sessions.

"We are optimistic that the Home Buyer Education program offered through this initiative will help more households realize their dreams of owning a home," said Heather Floyd, homeownership education coordinator at MHC.

"MHI also provides a service to mortgage lender and real estate professionals who can be more efficient in working with first-time buyers who have been exposed to a high quality pre-purchase housing education program."

First-time homebuyers who complete the Home Buyer Education program will be eligible for a 5% discount on the Up Front Mortgage Insurance premium. This will reduce the requirement down to 1.75% of the mortgage amount if potential homebuyers use Federal Housing Administration (FHA) insurance. The mortgage must be financed within one year of completion of the counseling program.

Camp Stanislaus

In preparing to host the 175 campers from all over the world for six action-packed weeks of summer excitement in Bay St. Louis, Camp Stanislaus counselors work on their expertise in rigging and operating sunfish, Harpoons, Hobie Cats.

Gearing up for Camp Stanislaus

Under the guidance of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart, preparations for Camp Stanislaus 1999 are being completed.

Ted Schmidt, camp director and 1979 graduate of SSC, has worked diligently in preparing to host the 175 campers from all over the world for six weeks of summer excitement in Bay St. Louis.

Camp Stanislaus combines recreational activities with academic pursuits for boys ages 9-15. Every boy participates in recreational activities, including sailing, water skiing, marksmanship, ceramics, swimming, horseback riding, fishing, water park adventures around the Gulf Coast, the mudslide, archery and much more.

Each boy also participates in a daily two-hour academic program, which focuses on computer skills, mathematics and reading.

Coming to Bay St. Louis from all over the Southeast, the 40-plus counselors prepare Camp Stanislaus for the arrival of the campers June 13. In addition to the preparations to the physical plant of St. Stanislaus, the counselors will gain certification in boating safety, CPR, first aid, and lifeguarding.

Transplant recipients need help from Sen. Lott

The 106th Congress has introduced legislation that would eliminate the 36-month time limitation for Medicare coverage of immunosuppressive medications ("antirejection drugs").

The Immunosuppressive Drugs Act (S.631) would allow Medicare to cover these drugs for transplant recipients indefinitely instead of cutting off after three years.

The antirejection medication for most kidney transplant recipients can cost more than $11,000 per year. Without private health insurance this expense would be too much for most people so they either do not have the transplant or reject the organ after three years.

If the kidney rejects, the patient then has to return to dialysis, which according to the United States Renal Data System costs Medicare around $47,000 per year.

Since Medicare covers the cost of the transplant, it does not make sense to risk organ rejection. This "gift of life" is too valuable to lose.

Senator Lott sits on the Senate's Finance Committee, which has jurisdiction over this legislation. Please contact Senator Lott and ask him to support S.631.

Sky Fest

Jackson's Sky Fest '94 the Shining Example Event of the Year Award in the category of events that draw in excess of 100,000.

Sky Parade, a tourism development project of the Metro Jackson Convention and Visitors Bureau, had previously been listed in the Top 20 events in the Southeast by the Tourism Society, and as one of the top 100 events in North America by the American Bus Association. Dillon said promoters were still finalizing plans for the Sky Fest to be held in Jackson again this year over the Labor Day weekend, but would shortly start to work on promoting the celebration for the year 2000.

"Our next biggest hurdle is getting corporate sponsors," said Dillon, "but, we are hoping the Coast community will support us, as they do several other events staged on the Coast." Although beer distributors had been recruited as sponsors of Sky Fest in past years, during negotiations with Sky Parade, Inc., McDonald insisted that no beer or other alcoholic beverages would be sold at the airport during the event.

Under the lease agreement, Sky Parade, Inc., would have the rights to use Stennis for two years, with the Port and Harbor granted the right of first refusal should they want to return a third year. Promoters were also given the option to cancel within 60 days of the event in case there aren't enough paying sponsors to support the air show.

Beth Carriere, executive director of Hancock County's Tourism Development Bureau, said her agency will work with promoters to market the event, listing it on its Calendar of Events, and on the website. She said she knew Dillon and some of the other Sky Parade officials.

wide travel lanes and two six-foot-wide shoulders with concrete curbs and side rails.

The new bridge will be 75 feet, five feet longer than the present drawbridge, and 29.5 feet high. The present bridge is only 11 feet high.

The project will require approximately 1.76 acres of additional right-of-way, but no relocation of businesses or residences will be required.

Garnell Russell and Associates of Gulfport are the design engineers. Russell told the Echo it was hoped the project could be put out to public bid in the fall, with demolition of the old bridge beginning by the first of next year.

Interested parties wanting to comment on the bridge project have until June 30 to send letters.

Bay artist says it gets better every year

BY RANDY PONDER

"Every year has been better than the year before, and this is the best one yet," said folk artist Alice Moseley during an interview this week.

And who could argue? The 89-year-old Bay St. Louis artist is at the height of her popularity. She is featured in the June issue of Southern Living magazine and other publications, appeared on local television last week and has been interviewed by reporters from all over. And, she sells her paintings faster than she can produce them.

"I'm too old for all this foolishness," Moseley quipped. "So much has happened, and I've been in the media so much lately, people will think I'm paying them. I tell them the old girl is going on 90, and they think we better get her while we can."

Moseley's home and studio are located in a beautiful, little shotgun cottage at 214 Bookter Street in Bay St. Louis.

how far I would go with this. It started out as a hobby."

In Pope, the Moseleys lived in an old cabin that was originally part of Graceland. Elvis Presley's father gave it to Alice's husband who dismantled it and then reassembled the house piece by piece.

"We had some good years there before my husband's death," Moseley said. "He was so happy to be back in Panola County. He loved it. He was a wonderful father, just a great man."

A short time later, Alice produced one of her most popular paintings, 'Until Today I Thought I Was Folks.' It is a memorial to her bird dog, Joe, depicting folk and pet heaven.

"Old Joe refused to eat after Mr. Moseley's death," Alice explained. "He grieved himself to death."

Moseley said she has been offered a lot of money for that painting, but refuses to sell. A cotton farmer from Memphis calls each year and raises his offer each time, to no avail. "Some things you just don't sell," she related. "There's too much emotion in that painting. I want my son Tim to have it. It's a legacy I can leave him."

Alice first heard of Bay St. Louis when she accepted an invitation from Jerry Dixon to attend the Beach Front Festival. "I knew when I came here that this is what I'd been looking for," Moseley explained. "I went back home and sold out and moved here."

"This town has been wonderful to me, I could never repay the people for all they've done for me. Every move that I've made fulfilled a need. Coming here was the best move I ever made. I was 79 at the time."

And the town has taken her in. Last year, Hancock Medical Center dedicated a children's room in her honor. In 1996, both Bay St. Louis and Waveland proclaimed 'Alice Moseley Day' and she was honored at a gala reception.

She has also been commissioned to paint the Bay St. Louis Depot and many other projects around the area.

During one of the receptions, Moseley brought the house down with her one-liners, including, "At my age, when I order a three-minute egg, they make me pay in advance."

She also has a mural of one of her paintings on the side of a downtown business on Main Street, "The Pot-Of-Gold is at the end of the Rainbow in Bay St. Louis."

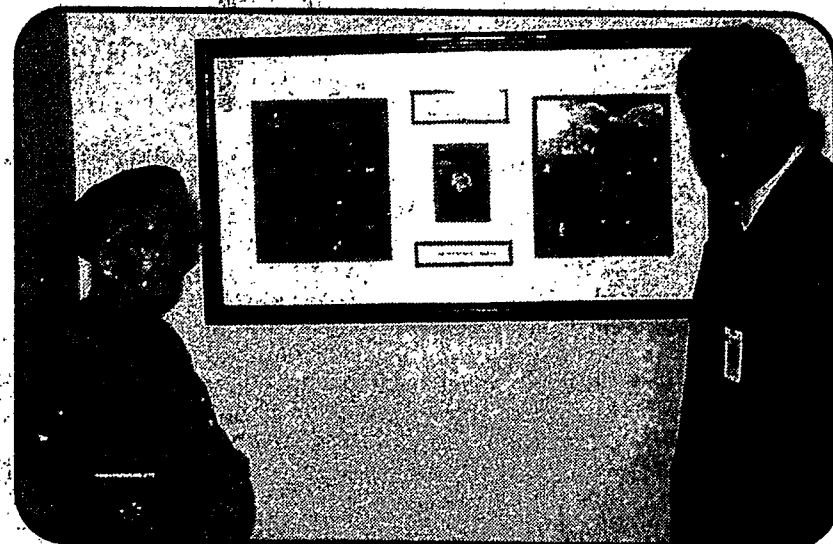

"That painting is not about money," Moseley explained. "It's about finding a place where I wanted to spend the rest of my life. A place that also attracted my son."

She is referring to Tim, a counselor working out of Pass Christian.

And it's easy to see that the two have a very special relationship. "He checks on me all the time. He's also responsible for the title of 'The House is Blue, But The Old Lady Ain't.' I have to be careful not to give him too much credit, he might want a commission," she said with a chuckle.

Tim is also planning a museum for her works. "I'm glad to know about it while I'm still here."

She then told a story about how Tim was forced to be in the school chorus when he was in high school. "He couldn't sing and didn't want to be in the chorus. He was sent to the principal's office where he was asked to sing. Midway through the first verse, the principal stopped him and agreed he didn't belong in the chorus," Moseley laughed.

"I got a call from one of my English students about that title." You would have failed us for using that kind of grammar the student said. "I told her the difference is, Honey, I ain't teaching now," Moseley grinned.

Her former students sent her a ticket to fly to Memphis for a reunion a few years back. And her former principal, knowing her age, asked Moseley if he needed to get a wheelchair to meet her at the airport. She replied, "I don't know, but if you need one I'll get it for you."

The sharp-witted Moseley smiled and said, "I hope my humor is the last thing to go."

Moseley has no formal training. "I don't do anything according to the book, I have my own style," she says. "It's not my art that sells, it's my subject matter. Every one of my paintings tell a story."

After seeing the article in Southern Living, an Atlanta businessman stopped in her studio and purchased several copies of her prints. He then asked if he could take a photo and requested Moseley go out front on the sidewalk and do the dance like in the painting.

Moseley laughed and told the fellow, "At my age, if I tried to do a thing like that, they would come and haul me away."

Last week, a group of 25 sixth-graders from Cleveland, Miss. visited her studio. "The little rascals had been saving their money, and every one of them bought a print." They also wanted a photo with Moseley, and afterwards she told them to their amusement, "What are people going to think? That I failed the sixth grade at least a hundred times!"

Moseley turned serious for a moment and reflected on all the negative news concerning today's children. "Young people are no worse today than they ever were," she said. "They have more temptations, but young people are just fine. It's the parents and lack of school discipline that's the problem. They're afraid of being sued. Politics have a lot to do with it."

"The most important thing I tried to teach my students was the difference between fear and respect. Students won't confide in you if they are afraid of you."

Moseley hosts local school groups on a regular basis. "I enjoy them as much as they like coming here."

"My life hasn't been dull and it still isn't. I've seen a pretty wide range of dark times but I don't want that reflected in my painting. Maybe that's why I'm such a tough old bird."

Making fun of her age, Moseley used one of her well-known lines,

"I wake up in the morning and read the obituaries. If I don't see my name, I get up."

"Old folks need a reason to get out. There's so much wasted talent in older folks."

"My next project, when I get to where I can't paint, is to write down or record all my stories. That's all I need, a third career," Moseley laughs.

Moseley created a new painting in 1996, "Chickens and Melons for Chickenpox and Mumps" for the "Art For Health" gala to benefit the Hancock Medical Center Foundation for support of the pavilion building project.

The brightly painted, gingerbread-adorned house looks just like what one might imagine as an artist's home.

The studio walls are covered with prints and originals of her work. Windows on the front and a side wall look out over her garden, teeming with various flowers and shrubs.

When I first moved here, there were no plants in the yard. Not even a healthy weed," Moseley laughed. "Since then, I've been Garden of the Month twice."

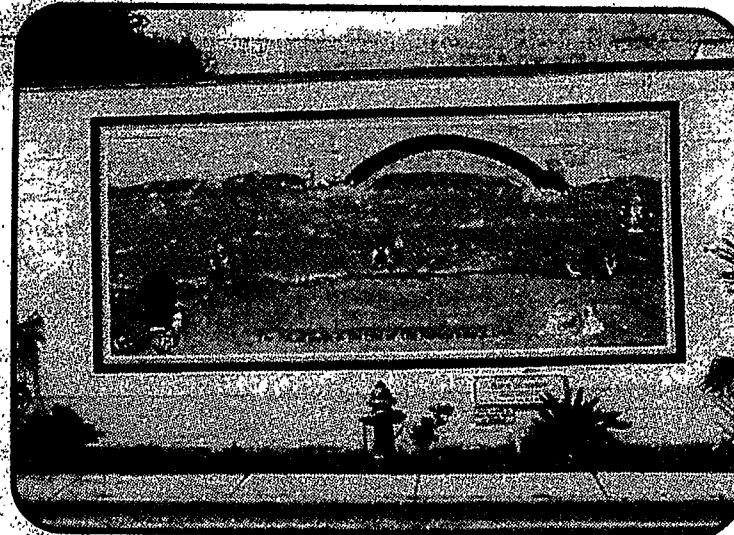

The studio is also home to Herman the expensive beagle. "We saved him from the pound."

Moseley has not always lived here though. She is a native of Birmingham, Ala. "I was born, married and had my only child there." She later taught eighth grade English for 30 years in Memphis, Tenn.

The family relocated to Mississippi, near Batesville, in a little town called Pope, and Moseley retired from teaching to care for her mother who suffered from Alzheimer's disease. That's when Alice started painting.

"Alzheimer's is such a terrible disease, there's nothing you can do. For the last three years, I don't think my mother even knew who I was. I was a little resentful, and that's when I started my painting. It was therapy for me. Had it not been for her sickness, I would have continued teaching. My painting is a gift from my mother."

"I started painting on old cedar shingles. Didn't realize

"The Pot-Of-Gold is at the end of the Rainbow in Bay St. Louis."

Hurricane season is here: Get your boat ready

Now is the time to plan how to protect your boat from a storm's furies, says, BOAT/U.S., the nation's largest association of recreational boaters.

Because of El Nino, last year was relatively calm hurricane-wise for the U.S., but this year, watch out: La Nina has replaced El Nino. Colorado State University hurricane forecaster Dr. William Gray predicts a worse than usual season, with 14 named storms (average 9.3) and nine hurricanes (average is 5.8).

Hurricanes can affect boats five ways. The storm surge can raise the water level far above normal high tide. Winds can range from 70-200 mph and, as the speed of the wind increases, the damage it causes increases at a much greater rate. Waves, even in protected harbors, can build to surprising heights. Most hurricanes bring at least 6"-12" of rain in 24-hours, and often much more. Finally, hurricanes sometimes spawn tornadoes and water spouts.

Boat owners can do two things now, long before a hurricane approaches, to help ensure their boats get the best protection possible during a hurricane.

*First, make sure you have everything you'll need to secure your boat—extra lines, chafe protection, fenders, anchors, duct tape and port plugs. (Get extra batteries now too—stores always seem to run out of these first.)

*Second, decide where to keep your boat in case of a hurricane and figure out how to get it there. Move your boat when a hurricane is a substantial possibility—before a hurricane "watch" is posted. Otherwise, you may find bridges locked down, your hurricane hole inaccessible or too crowded, or your marina too busy to haul your boat.

A study by MIT after 1985's Hurricane Gloria found boats stored ashore were far more likely to survive than boats in the water. Boats ashore should be stored well above the anticipated storm surge and moved out of high-rise storage racks, which are vulnerable in a storm's high winds. If possible, boats stored on davits or lifts should also be removed and stored ashore.

If you plan to anchor your boat, remember that seawall or sandy spit that normally protects a "snug" harbor can be washed out by the storm surge, which may be at least 10 feet high. The best anchoring is usually in sand, followed by clay, hard mud, shells, broken shells and soft mud.

After Hurricane Fran in 1996, BOAT/U.S. catastrophe team members estimated that as many as half of the damaged boats at marinas could have been saved by using better docklines: lines that were longer (at least as long as the boat itself), larger (for most boats, use 1/2" line for boats up to 25 feet, 3/4" line for boats 25-34 feet, and 1" to 1 1/2" line for larger boats), and protected by chafing (use two layers of neoprene garden hose or, in an emergency, duct tape that secures several layers of heavy canvas to the lines.)

Canals, rivers and waterways can be good hurricane holes. In narrow canals, a boat should be secured in the center with several sturdy lines tied to trees and pilings on both shores. In wider canals and waterways, boats should be secured using a combination of anchors and lines tied to trees ashore. The more lines and anchors you use, the better.

Mooring in a sheltered location can be a good alternative to expose harbors and crowded marinas. A BOAT/U.S. test found that embedment type mooring anchors that are screwed or driven into the harbor bottom are the most likely to hold. If you have any doubts about your mooring's holding power, use one or more storm anchors to augment it.

If you trailer your boat, inspect your trailer regularly to be sure it will work when you need it. You may want to move your car out of the garage and put your boat in a boat is lighter and more vulnerable to high winds than a car.

Once you've secured your boat, strip all loose gear that creates windage: canvas covers, bimini tops, outriggers, antennas, anchors, running rigging, dinghies, etc. Anything on deck that can't be taken off should be lashed securely. If you can't unstep your mast, remove sails—especially roller furling headsails.

Remove all electronics and other valuable gear—including ship's documents—from the boat. Remove cowl ventilators and seal the openings. Use duct tape to secure instrument gauge covers and around hatches, ports, lockers, etc. to prevent water damage below. Close all but the cockpit drain seacocks and bang a plug into the engine's exhaust ports.

Above all, get off your boat. There is little, if anything, a skipper can do to save a boat in the middle of a hurricane. Do whatever it takes to secure your boat, and then head inland. Boats can be replaced. People can't.

Fire Dogs return Friday

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The Mississippi Fire Dogs of the Indoor Professional Football League have a game against the Louisiana Bayou Beast on Friday, June 18 at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum in Biloxi.

The game is set for 7:30pm. After the game all the fans of the Fire Dogs will have the opportunity to get into the The Summer Fair and Music Festival being held on the grounds of the Coliseum until June 20th.

More details on how to enter the fair will be given at the game or you may call the Fire Dog office at 228-388-1876.

The Fire Dogs are currently 3-6 on the season.

Last week the Fire Dogs fell to the Bayou Beast 31-29.

The offensive player of the week for Mississippi is wide receiver Nicky Seymour who hauled in six catches for 101 yards and two scores.

The defensive player of the week for the Fire Dogs is Kevin Bouis who tallied six tackles, a pass breakup, and one interception.

Fire Dogs to have fund raiser

The Mississippi Fire Dogs of the Indoor Professional Football League (IPFL) have announced that they will be holding a fund raiser for injured Louisiana Defensive Back/Kick Returner Chris Beard at their next home game June 18 versus the Bayou Beast.

Beard suffered a spinal cord injury in last week's game against Texas and underwent seven hours of surgery June 8.

Beard has yet to regain feeling in his arms or legs and is breathing with the aid of a respirator.

For information, call the Fire Dogs at 228-388-1876.

Fire Dogs contests

The Mississippi Fire Dogs of the Indoor Professional Football League (IPFL) have announced two special contests for this week's game to be held June 18 at 7:30 p.m.

The first contest is just for the kids. It's a costume contest where contestants dress as their favorite Super Hero. The Fire Dogs Dance Team will be picking contestants as they come in the gates.

The second contest is in conjunction with Discount Auto Parts, Glass Motors and your Fire Dogs for a new Jeep Wrangler.

For information, call the Fire Dogs at 228-388-1876.

The Bay Breeze

The Bay Breeze, the U-12 girls All-Star team from the Bay area, won second place in the Southern District State Games tournament. This qualifies them to compete in the Mississippi State Games which will be held in Meridian the weekend of July 18, 19 and 20. The team members are Jessica Hearty, Ellen Clare Dauterive, Sarah Loiacano, Jane Covington, Lindsey Benvenuti, Hannah Grace Johnson, Kandace Boos, Valtressa Myles, Amanda Melville, Holland McCandless, Meghan Flynn, Lauren Renz, Margaret Hadden, Laura Adam, Annie Giardino, Jennifer Coote, Robin Fletcher and Kolby Cameron. Coaches are Marco Giardino and Molly Hadden. The team is sponsored by Union Planters Bank and Remax, Southern Shores.

'Misty' is 1999's most popular boat name

From out of nowhere, "Misty" has emerged as the favorite boat name for 1999, trouncing such long-time favorites as "Serenity," "Odyssey" and "Obsession" in the BOAT/U.S. annual survey of boat names. This is the first time "Misty" has made the top-10 list.

In second place is another relative newcomer, "Flying Cloud," "Serenity," which has been at our near the top of the list ever since BOAT/U.S. began compiling statistics in 1992, came in third.

Puns are notoriously popular in boat names, and 1999 is no exception. Fourth-place "Irish Wake," sixth-place "Seas the Day," eighth-place "Gypsea" and ninth-place "Luna Sea" show that boaters are still happily playing with words on the water.

Rounding out the top 10 favorite boat names are fifth-place "Wind Dancer," seventh-place "Odyssey" and 10th-place "Osprey."

Falling out of favor in 1999 are popular boat-name perennials as "Escape," "Obsession," and "Fantasia."

Says BOAT/U.S. president Richard Schwartz, "I've been around long enough to know that names rarely go out of favor forever. The millennium could have 'Escape' right back on the top of the list."

The BOAT/U.S. Graphics Department, which produces boat lettering for the associations 500,000 members, has compiled the "most-requested" boat names each year since 1992.

UM names athletic director

University of Mobile President Dr. Mark Foley recently announced the selection of Craig Bogar as athletic director of one of the largest and most successful programs in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Bogar, formerly athletic director at Loyola University in New Orleans, will assume the post of UM athletic director July 26.

Bogar will have full responsibility for UM's intercollegiate athletic program, which includes approximately 165 student athletes competing in basketball, baseball, softball, golf, soccer, cross-country and track.

He is married to Christine Bogar, a mental health counselor and doctoral candidate at the University of New Orleans. They have two daughters, Corinne, 12, and Brooke, 8.

High school hitters help Hope Haven

The 1999 "Hits for Hope" raised over $6,000 for Hope Haven Children's Shelter, according to Terry Latham, shelter director. Hits for Hope was started last year by Chris Davis, a senior at St. Stanislaus.

Davis wanted to help the non-profit children's shelter, and he thought that getting the star baseball players from all the local Coast high school teams would be a great way to do so.

Davis drafted 12 players last year who raised over $5,500 by finding sponsors to pay for each hit the player made during the regular high school schedule.

Davis moved on to Mississippi State this year, but he remained the driving force behind the effort. His friend, Chad Blalock of St. Stanislaus, took up the challenge and signed up 15 players this year.

This year's players include Justin Gunter, Charley Buckley, Chad Blalock, Danny Courtenay, Joe Kanode, Jonathan Butterfield, Bobby Garner, John Parker, Robbie Henderson, Chad Pylate, Jason Smith, Thad Rhodes, Chris Romano, Grant Patterson and Cragin Gilbert.

Davis and Blalock are already making plans for next year's season. The young men intend to start recruiting early and enlist the aide of the respective school coaches to recruit more players for the year 2000.

"We have set a goal of raising over $10,000 next year, and we will make it happen," they said.

The Hope Haven director presented trophies and thanks to the players and their invited guests last week at a luncheon hosted by the Outback Steak House in Gulfport.

"Not only does Outback have great food," commented Latham, "Mr. Bob Taylor and his crew are just wonderful people. They care about kids. They put on a great spread for these players and wouldn't accept a dime... even the waitstaff worked as volunteers."

Latham said he was "floored" when Davis and Blalock walked into his office last year and outlined what they were going to do.

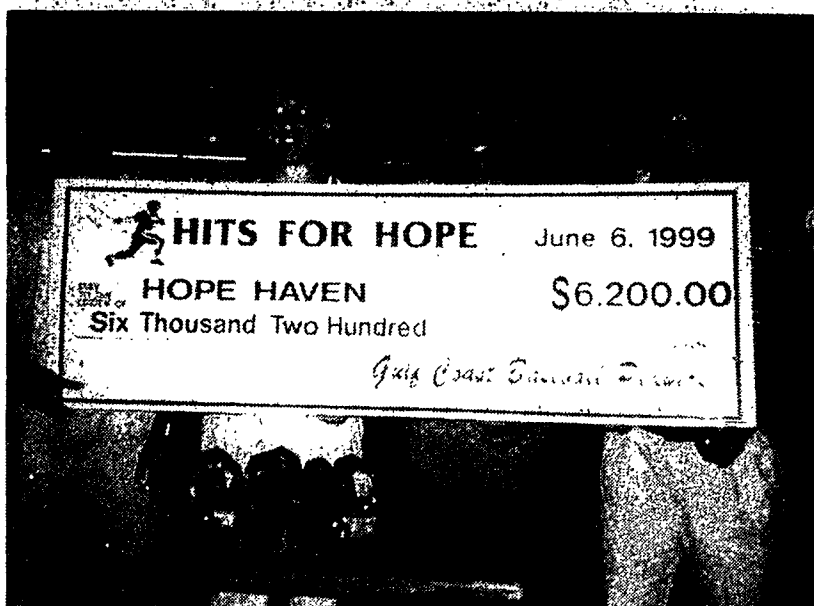

"They were committed and they were organized. These young men come from excellent families, are top students and athletes and are well on their way to successful lives and careers.

"That they thought about the hundreds of children who come through our door who have been abused and neglected and started this effort speaks volumes about their character and humanity. This entire community should be proud of them, I certainly am."

Chad and Chris will be nominated as our volunteers of the year for their efforts."

Anyone who is interested in supporting the year 2000 Hits for Hope or in starting a similar sports-oriented fund raiser for this non-profit shelter is invited to contact Hope Haven at 467-7945, fax 466-4707, e-mail: hopehaven@mail.waoy.com

Hits for Hope

High school baseball players from along the Mississippi Gulf Coast presented a check for $6,200 to Hope Haven, a shelter for children through the 1999 "Hits for Hope" program. The program was started by Chris Davis, a senior last year at St. Stanislaus and continued this year by Chad Blalock of Stanislaus.

Oyster cultch planting set for Telegraph

The Mississippi Department of Marine Resources will begin an oyster cultch planting project June 17. Independent contractors will be depositing approximately 2,000 cubic yards of crushed concrete into the Sound to enhance existing oyster reefs and create new reef areas.

Twenty acres of reef material will be deposited in an area overlapping Telegraph Reef.

"This is a very rewarding project for the Department. This project should benefit oyster fishermen as well as the overall coastal economy," Scott Gordon, DMR program coordinator said. "A larger oyster growing area will increase the potential harvest."

The cultch will arrive on three barges (weather pending) and will be evenly spread with high-pressure water hoses.

The area receiving the cultch is located approximately 6.5 miles south of Pass Christian Harbor and 12 miles southwest of Long Beach Harbor. This project is funded through federally provided Hurricane Andrew disaster relief monies.

For information about this project contact Scott Gordon with the Department of Marine Resources, 2200 Highway 90, P.O. Box 5000 ext. 5026.

Best fishing sites available from DWFP

Wondering where to go fishing this weekend? Wander over to your telephone and call the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks and ask for a copy of the state's best fishing locations.

Just published by the DWFP, the best fishing locations are based on fish population data collected during sampling surveys by fisheries biologists and technicians.

The best fishing sites are identified by county with mileage directions to each one. The fishing areas are grouped according to which administrative districts of the DWFP they are located. The list also contains a ranking of the best lakes for largemouth bass, crappie, bluegill, and catfish. To obtain a copy of the best fishing locations, call 601-364-2203.

Outfitters, guides hold meeting

The Mississippi Outfitters & Guides Association (MS.O.G.A.), founded in June, 1996, held its annual membership meeting in Jackson at the Mississippi Cattlemen's Association Building on June 5.

The association consists of hunting, fishing and wildlife viewing outfitters and guides throughout Mississippi.

The association's board has established committees for insurance, marketing, membership and regulations. Commercial outfitting interests are invited to join the association and to volunteer.

"Our membership dues are minimal, and anyone with an interest in commercial hunting, fishing and wildlife viewing in Mississippi can join the association as an associate member," said Tommy Allen, vice president.

"Commercial outfitters and guides throughout the state are encouraged to join the association in promoting the industry and working with the state in setting regulations," said Allen. MS.O.G.A. will host a reception at Hal & Mal's restaurant in Jackson Aug. 7.

For information, call T. Logan Russell, president-elect at (601) 981-3865, or Allen at (601) 636-7541.

'Chris Rock'

Easily one of the most recognizable names in comedy today, Chris Rock has come a long way to earn his comedic status.

From an early age, Rock knew he would be somebody someday. In fact, childhood friends recall him walking around saying to anybody who would listen, "I'm Chris Rock. I'm Chris Rock," as if he were practicing at being famous.

And it wasn't long before the comic wannabe began making a name for himself. Emulating the stylings of Richard Pryor, Sam Kinison, Steve Martin and Eddie Murphy, Rock took his act to the New York club circuit.

His big break came when mentor Eddie Murphy caught a show and liked his act. From that point, Rock gained appearances on HBO's Uptown Comedy Express, Saturday Night Live and In Living Color.

He later entered the big screen scene with roles in Beverly Hills Cop II, Boomerang and the movie Dr. Dolittle, to name a few.

Chris Rock is now bringing his hilarious street-smart comedy act to the Biloxi Grand Theatre for one show only, Friday, July 2, 10 p.m. Tickets are $44.95 floor/$39.95 balcony.

Tickets are on sale now. Call 1-800-WIN-2-WIN or at TicketMaster outlets.

'Boyz Scaggs'

Boyz Scaggs began his musical career in the 80's as a member of the Steve Miller band. He released a number of critically acclaimed solo records in the late 80's and early 90's, but it was his Silk Degrees album in 1976 that was his first solo breakthrough attempt.

'Lido' and 'Lowdown' were two hits from the album that helped ignite a musical legacy that blends rock and R&B into his distinct style.

After taking some time off during the 80's, Scaggs returned to recording and touring. Now with a new album, 'Come On Home,' Scaggs is ready to perform again.

"I've wanted to do this rhythm and blues album for a long time," says Scaggs about his new Virgin Records release. "I grew up on this music, and this record is a tribute to some of my heroes."

Boyz Scaggs will be performing at the Biloxi Grand Theatre for one show only on Friday, July 23 at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $24.95/floor/$19.95 balcony. For details, call 1-800-WIN-2-WIN. Tickets are also available at TicketMaster outlets.

Treasure Bay

Scalawag's Brewpub & Showbar, offering live free entertainment nightly, 2nd floor, Treasure Bay Casino, 1983 Beach Blvd., Biloxi, phone (228) 385-6000 or 800-PIRATE 9.

Every Monday, The Beat Daddys, 9 a.m.-1 a.m. Just back from a tour of Europe, The Beat Daddys present original songs from their own CDs and the best of Southern rockin' blues.

Every Fri-Sun, The Brewsters, 3-7 p.m. Easy listening music provides late-afternoon and early-evening delight especially for the pleasure of guests dining at Scalawag's Brewpub every weekend.

Every Friday, Art DeLoria & The Sugar Mill Band, 10:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m. From ballroom dance to swing and jazz, this renowned Mississippi Coast band is a popular with older guests.

June 22-July 11, Mustang Sally, Tues.-Sun., 9-11 p.m. This six-piece all-female progressive country band has "lots of attitude and polish and everything except men!"

Since the last appearance at Treasure Bay in January, Mustang Sally has appeared at major cities throughout the Southeast.

June 22-27, Noah's Rain, June 29-July, Fore Play, 12:30 a.m.-4 a.m. Enjoy Top 40 hits by this exciting showband.

July 6-18, Be Wires (Tuesday through Sunday) 12:30 a.m.-4 a.m. They've warmed up for a number of national acts and they're hot all on their own.

Herman's Hermits

Herman's Hermits featured at Magic

Casino Magic Bay St. Louis presents Herman's Hermits featuring Peter Noone in concert Friday, June 18 at 9 p.m. Tickets may be purchased through TicketMaster or the Casino Magic Box Office for $10, $12 and $15.

For information, call 1-800-5-MAGIC-5, ext. 4535. Must be 21 to attend.

As a key leader of the "British Invasion," Peter Noone is one of the most respected pop stars from the 1960's, with fans that span three generations.

His creative vocal technique, youthful good looks, personal charm and compelling stage presence combine to make him one of the most beloved entertainers in the business.

At 15, Noone achieved international fame as "Herman," lead singer of the successful British rock band Herman's Hermits. As the focus of the Hermits with his unmistakable voice, he became one of the top-selling artists in the history of pop music.

Such songs as Mrs. Brown You've Got A Lovely Daughter, Henry The Eighth, There's A Kind of Hush, I'm Into Something Good, Listen People, and many others, translated into 14 gold records and more than 23 best-selling recordings — totaling some 51 million recordings sold.

Noone has appeared on every top-rated television variety program, including The Tonight Show, Rock Concert, American Bandstand and The Midnight Special. At one time, NBC television even produced an hour-long documentary revolving around Noone (and Herman's Hermits) on tour.

Noone hosted My Generation, a unique half-hour retrospective series featuring the music fashions and fads of the 60s, 70s and 80s, which quickly became a hit with the VHI audience. His sensibility and musical heritage combined to guide viewers through videos, interviews and extraordinary glimpses of people and special event. My Generation propelled to No. 1 in its time slot.

Now a California resident who "... happily parlayed his past into a music and stage career," Noone has also dabbled in acting and has been seen on network television in guest roles on Easy Street, Laverne and Shirley, WKRP in Cincinnati, My Two Dads, Married with Children and Quantum Leap.

In 1989, Noone re-recorded his 1964 smash hit I'm Into Something Good for the Paramount-Pictures comedy The Naked Good (a music video co-starring Leslie Nielsen was recorded and aired).

His latest recordings, produced with Phil Ramone, are found on the album Playback, where Noone re-recorded his most famous hits from the Hermits days, in addition to a few new songs for his fans.

Tips On Writing EFFECTIVE Classified Ads

STICK TO THE FACTS

Prospective buyers need to know details, like the condition of the item for sale, the size, brand name, color and any other relevant information that would help them make a decision.

BE HONEST

Aside from being unethical, exaggerating or misinforming potential buyers won't help you make a sale, and may only serve to lose a prospective buyers' trust. Even if they come to look at what you have to sell, they'll be less likely to buy the item or trust you once they see they've been misled.

SPELL IT OUT

Abbreviations are not easily understood by many people and may even confuse a reader. It only takes them a second to pass over an ad because it doesn't seem clear, why let it be yours because you abbreviated a description?

THE BOTTOM LINE

State the price. You'll save yourself the hassle of having to answer calls from prospects who, upon learning the price, are not really interested. Price is the first thing they'll look for when reading your ad, and when prospects know the price, you'll know you have a serious buyer on the line.

BE THERE

List the best hours to call and make sure you're at home. If you don't list a specific time, you could be flooded with calls any time of the day or night. And when you're not at home to take calls, most likely, they won't call back.

ASK US

If you aren't sure how to word your ad or what features to include, why not ask us? Our professionals on staff know how to create an effective ad that sells, they're always willing to help, and there's no charge!

Hurricane season is here...are you prepared?

Hurricane season usually runs from June through November for people living along the Atlantic seaboard and the Gulf of Mexico.

Although more than 100 "disturbances" a year have the potential to turn into hurricanes, on average only 10 of these become tropical storms, with six becoming full-fledged hurricanes.

The recipe for a hurricane requires two key ingredients: heat and moist air. In the summer and early fall, masses of air heat up over warm ocean waters and absorb moisture, creating the conditions that generate a hurricane.

The air flow in a hurricane spirals around the center, or eye, of the storm. The eye of a hurricane is deceptively tranquil, while the strongest winds and heaviest rains occur in the region surrounding the eye.

Hurricanes have long been causing destruction, but deaths attributable to these storms have declined in recent years thanks to technological advances in predicting the course and intensity of hurricanes. The National Hurricane Center in Florida tracks and ranks hurricanes and tropical storms. Thanks to advances in hurricane tracking, weather officials can usually provide 12 to 24 hours advance warning.

A hurricane watch is issued when a hurricane becomes a potential threat to coastal areas. If you live in the area covered by the watch, you should stay tuned to radio or television for further advisories and be ready to act quickly if a hurricane warning or evacuation order is issued.

A hurricane warning is issued when a hurricane is expected to hit a specific area within 24 hours. You should take precautions immediately. You may be advised to evacuate if you live right on the coast, in low-lying areas, in a mobile home or near a river or flood plain. If you live on high ground away from the beach, you may be safe remaining in your home.

Listen for news about the severity of the storm, and heed advice from local authorities should it become necessary to evacuate.

Be sure you're prepared for hurricane season. According to the National Weather Service, the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and the American Red Cross, it is recommended that you:

- Decide beforehand where to go if you must evacuate your home. You might choose a friend's home, motel or shelter.

- Identify a safe evacuation route as well as alternate routes. Remember that roads may be crowded and that bridges or causeways may be

- tion medications.
- 5. A portable radio and a flashlight, both with extra batteries.

- 6. Written instructions on how to turn off your home's utilities, along with the tools needed to do so.

you are evacuating to a shelter, make other arrangements for your pets, because most shelters won't allow them. Animals that assist people with disabilities are permitted.

- Protect your windows with boards or shutters.
- Secure or bring indoors garbage cans, toys, patio furniture and garden tools.

- Keep your car fueled in case you have to evacuate.
- Check mobile home tie-downs.

- Moor your boat securely or put it on the ground (removing motor and half filling the boat with water).
- Shut off the gas, water and electricity before you leave home.

- Protect valuables and personal papers in a waterproof box, moving them to higher ground (but only if you're certain time permits).

During the actual hurricane, be sure to stay indoors, away from windows and doors. Don't be tempted to go outdoors if the eye passes overhead and there is a lull in the storm; violent winds will return suddenly from the opposite direction.

Keep listening to the radio or television for updates.

After the hurricane, observe the following precautions:

- If you had to evacuate, return only when local authorities say it is safe to do so.
- Watch for downed power lines and report them to the proper authorities.

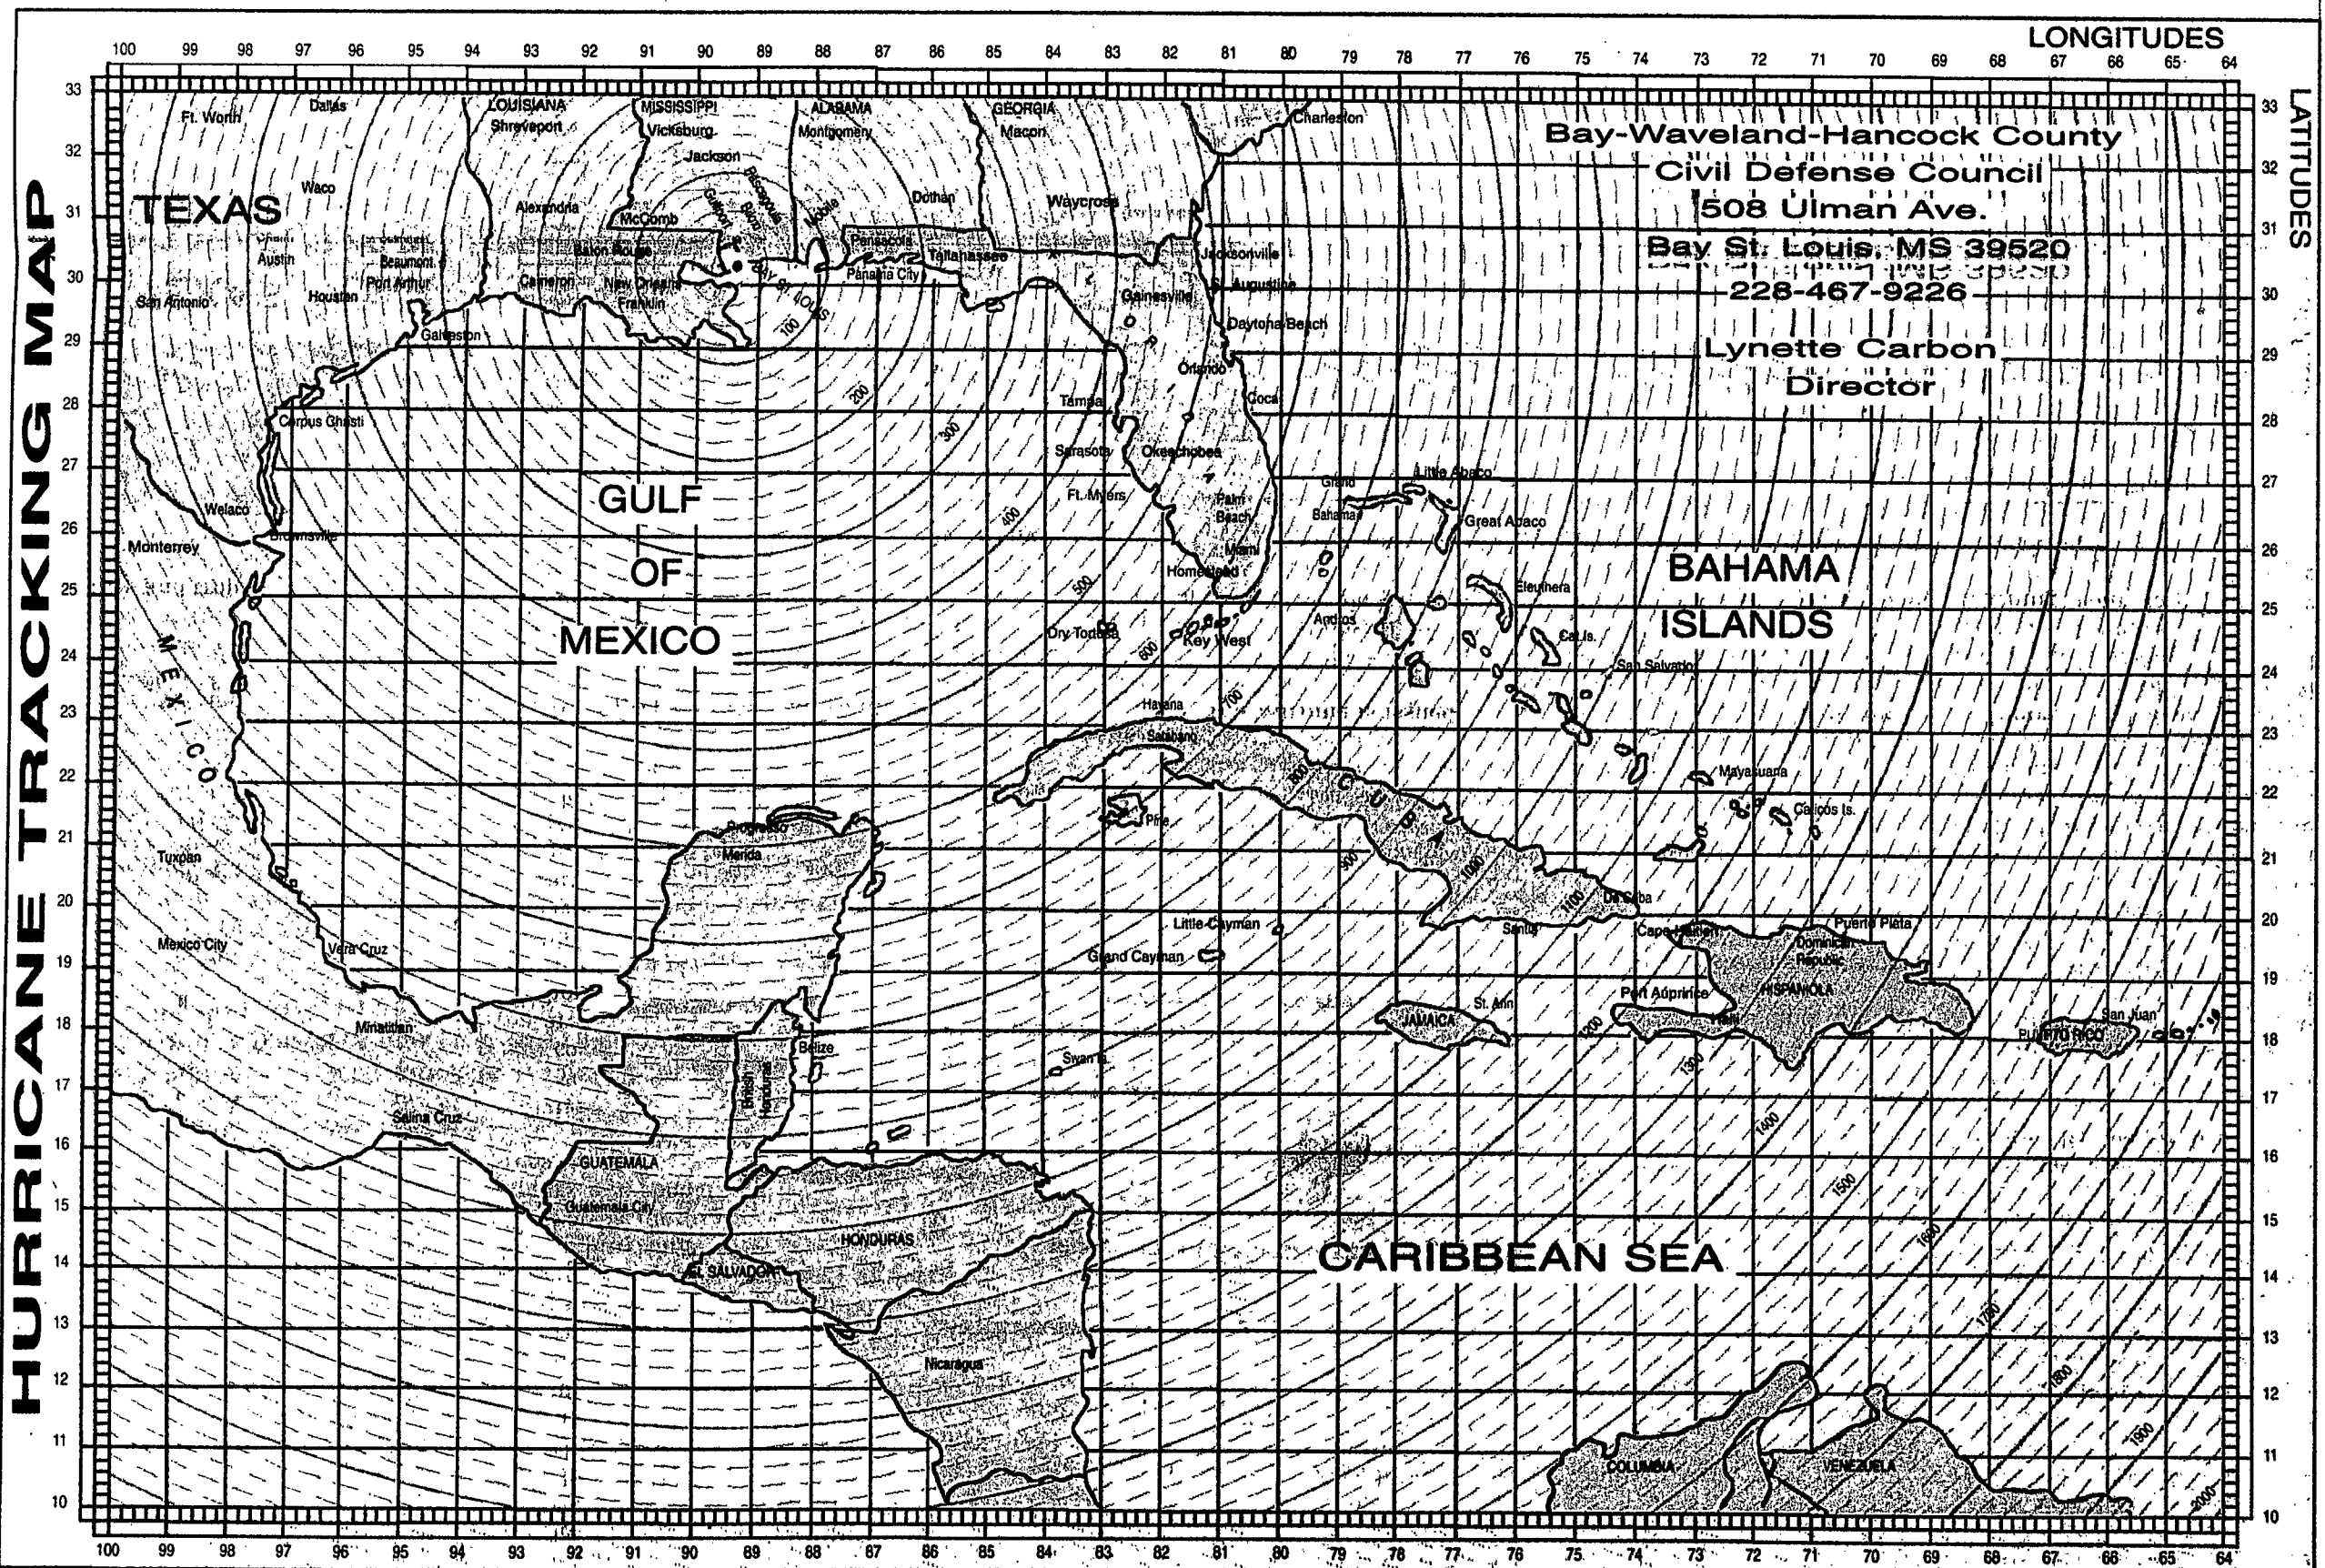

- Report broken or damaged water, gas and sewer lines.
- Stay off the roadways whenever possible. If you must go out, avoid flooded roads, bridges or causeways.

- Make sure buildings are structurally sound before entering them.
- Don't use tap water until you are advised that it is safe.

- Watch for food contamination. Use canned or boxed foods. Food in the freezer may last a few days if the door to the freezer is kept closed.

If property has been damaged, it will be easier to file a claim if you have a complete inventory of your property, including serial numbers, photographs or videotapes.

Injuries and deaths can be prevented if people understand the dangers of hurricanes and how to prepare for them. Teaching your family exactly what to do can help everyone come through safely.

FEMA warns against hurricane assistance fraud

The law enforcement arm of the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) ushered in the 1999 hurricane season with a warning that aggressive action will be taken against any criminal attempt to defraud the federal government in connection with disaster aid for hurricane victims.

According to Paul J. Lillis, assistant inspector general for the Investigations Division of FEMA's Office of the Inspector General, the vast majority of people seeking disaster aid are legally entitled to apply for it.

However, he noted that 90 individuals were either arrested or indicted over the last 18 months for disaster-related fraud resulting in more than $3.5 million in fines, restitution and other federal savings.

"Federal disaster aid is paid with taxpayers' money," Lillis said. "While we do not want to deter anyone from applying for federal assistance, we will enforce the law to protect honest citizens and keep disaster funds out of the hands of those who would commit criminal acts."

Lillis warned that theft of government property or claiming false hurricane losses are felony charges and carry a maximum five- to 10-year prison terms and/or a $250,000 fine.

He noted that recent investigations in Guam produced three indictments and two convictions for disaster assistance fraud involving Typhoon Paka, which ravaged the island in December 1997.

Additionally, a variety of guilty pleas also were entered in the Virgin Islands by individuals who were associated with fraudulent contractor practices for debris removal in the wake of Hurricane Marilyn.

And in Puerto Rico, where sensitive investigations continue, a theft and forgery ring investigation culminated with a guilty plea and an order to pay more than $7,600 in restitution.

Lillis noted that FEMA OIG special agents have organized multi-jurisdictional task forces that conduct successful investigations under the auspices of several U.S. Attorney's Offices.

Among agencies participating in these task forces are the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the U.S. Small Business Administration OIG, the Department of Transportation OIG, the U.S. Postal Inspection Service and the National Insurance Crime Bureau.

FEMA's OIG is responsible for investigating agency programs and operations, including fraudulent applications for Presidentially declared disaster assistance. Prosecution of fraud cases is brought by the U.S. Department of Justice.

Lillis said that anyone who is aware of criminal activity regarding FEMA disaster assistance can anonymously report directly to the OIG by calling 1-800-323-8603 24 hours a day, seven days a week.
